FLASH UPDATE 8 FEBRUARY 2023

edition 2023/03

Dear <<First Name>> <<Last Name>>,

Please find our Flash Update with some interesting news.

Of course many of our readers are following the news around Schiphol. Some organizations, or media are adding unnecessary fuel to the fire.

BARIN has urged all parties to work closely together to ensure a fine operation in 2023. More than ever our customers are looking forward to their travel, and it's our joint commitment to make sure that their start is smooth.

For another smooth start of your journey we refer to our Preferred Partner Quick Parking. They offer parking close to your airport of choice. Convenient and hassle free. Check it out on their website.

We also share our comments on a new insulation project.

Are you aware that airlines already paid a whopping 750 million Euros to insulate 13.000 houses during the 80's till 2012? Are you aware that our Government stated in 2013 that no more houses needed to be insulated?

However, recently we have been informed another

660 houses need to be done. Another € 40 million please...!

Let's first get some answers on the many questions we asked the Ministry on this project.

Last but not least we welcome Lodewijk Asscher as the new Independent Chairman of the Sustainable Aviation Table. We look forward to shape together sustainable aviation, our license to survive. So many initiatives, plans have been discussed, even more concrete actions have been and will be taken.

Billions of Euros are being invested, so I am convinced he will be impressed and surprised. Too often I meet travellers, journalists but also politicians who are not fully aware of our industry's efforts!

P.S. Were you aware of the € 750....?

Take care,

Marnix H Fruitema

Schiphol Airport signals staff shortages at Ground Handling Companies

Amsterdam Airport Schiphol announced to be on track with hiring additional security staff. Recruiting campaigns seem to be successful due to increased remuneration and improved working conditions. However, an ongoing situation of the unfulfilled vacancies at Ground Handling Companies gives Schiphol reason for concern for the entire operation at Schiphol in the Easter, May and Summer holiday periods. Schiphol's interim CEO Ruud Sondag has raised the red flag and calls upon all sector parties to work closely together in making sure that enough staff can safeguard a stable operation. Airlines, security, ground handling companies and border police are chain partners depending on each other.

Preferred Partner in the Picture: Quick Parking is "Cost-effective parking with great Comfort"

Quick Parking provides parking facilities close to airports which are located in the Netherlands with own sites near Amsterdam Airport Schiphol, Rotterdam-The Hague Airport and Eindhoven Airport and in Belgium near Brussels Airport. Furthermore, Quick Parking has a European coverage with partners going live on their website in a few weeks and Asia and North America later in 2023.

Quick Parking cooperates with several airlines and travel agencies/tour-operators who offer the Quick Parking car parks to their customers and this number is still growing. Individuals can also book directly at www.quickparking.com.

Quick Parking welcomes you at one of their locations and for any further questions or comments, we refer you to pascal@quickparking.nl.

BARIN submits point of view on Insulation Project Schiphol

In the period from the mid 1980's until 2012 ca. 13.000 houses around Schiphol were insulated in order to defer noise from inside homes and buildings. The Deputy Minister in 2013 stated that the project was finished and no more houses/objects needed to be insulated. The entire Noise Insulation Schiphol projects (GIS1, GIS2 and GIS3) were financed for a large part by the airlines at a cost of some € 750 million. BARIN is therefore opposing to a new initiative to insulate another 660 'objects' which were not insulated at the time and now to be insulated at a cost of an estimated € 40 million, which again is recharged to the airlines.
